

AI Strategy Conversation

An interactive discussion about navigating AI uncertainty and creating effective strategies despite constant change.

par Philippe Delanghe

The AI Landscape: Building on Quicksand

1 Pace Problem

AI moves faster than implementation cycles

2 Expert Disagreement

No consensus on AGI, scaling, capabilities

3 Prediction Failures

Forecasts consistently wrong despite progress

Global AI Complexity

Regulation

Used as competitive moat

Geopolitics

US vs. China vs. Europe shaping AI differently

Business Reality

Can't wait for clarity - must act now

Today's Discussion Format

Real Challenges

Not another keynote - addressing what keeps you up

Key Dilemmas

Five decisions you need to make today

Open Discussion

No right answers - figuring out practical implementation

Starting Point: Your AI Frustrations

Table Introductions

Share name, role, and one AI challenge

Identify Patterns

Common frustrations across companies

Set Discussion Tone

Practical, honest conversation about real issues

1. Strategy on Constant Evolution

1

Traditional Plans

3-5 year strategies obsolete?

2

Product Thinking

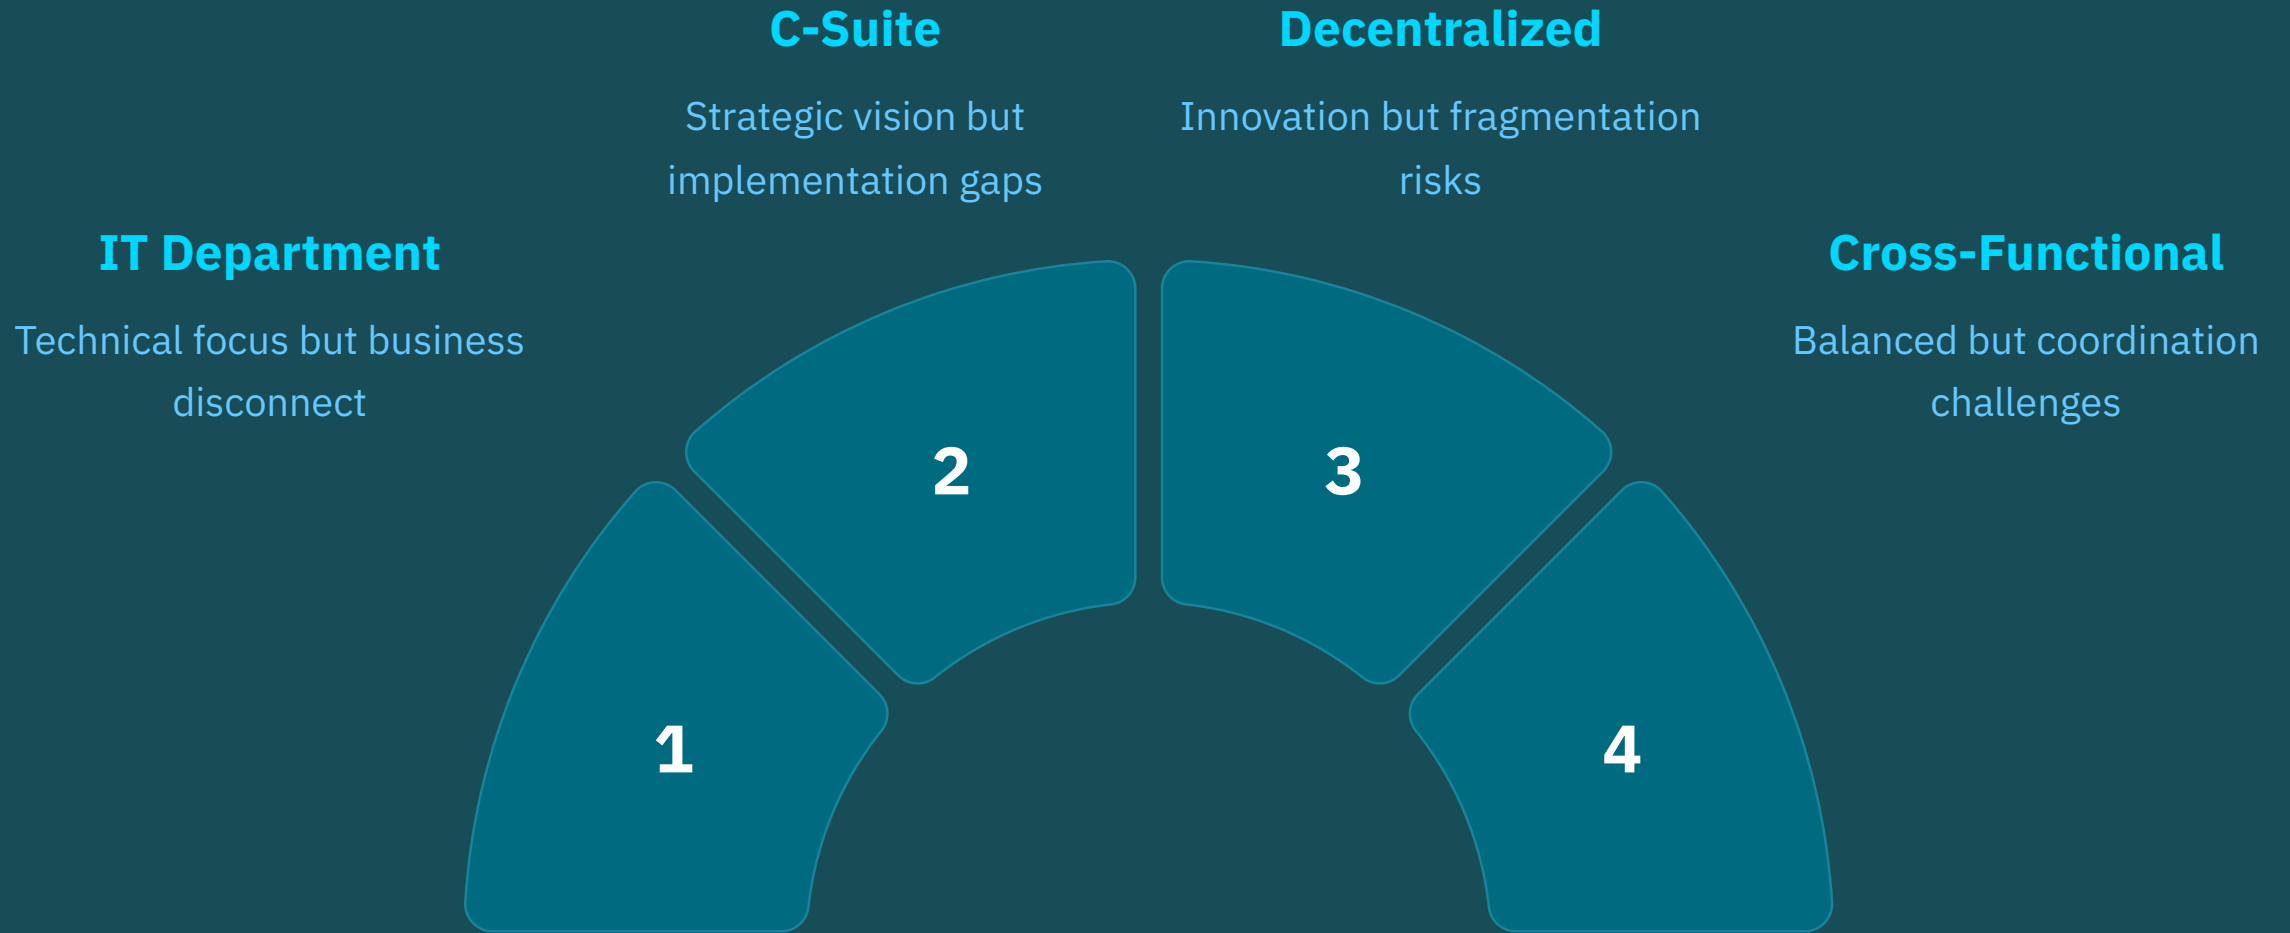

Iterative approach needed

3

Adaptive Framework

Balance vision with weekly evolution

2. AI Ownership Dilemma

Are We Thinking Too Small?

Pilot Purgatory

Testing but not scaling

Incremental Focus

Missing transformational potential

Underestimation Risk

Greater than overestimation

Balancing Speed and Safety

1

Move Fast

Competitive advantage but risks

2

Cautious Approach

Safety but market lag

3

Balanced Implementation

Thoughtful speed with guardrails

Employee vs. Leadership Adoption

3x

Employee Usage

Already using GenAI more than leaders expect

92%

Investment Plans

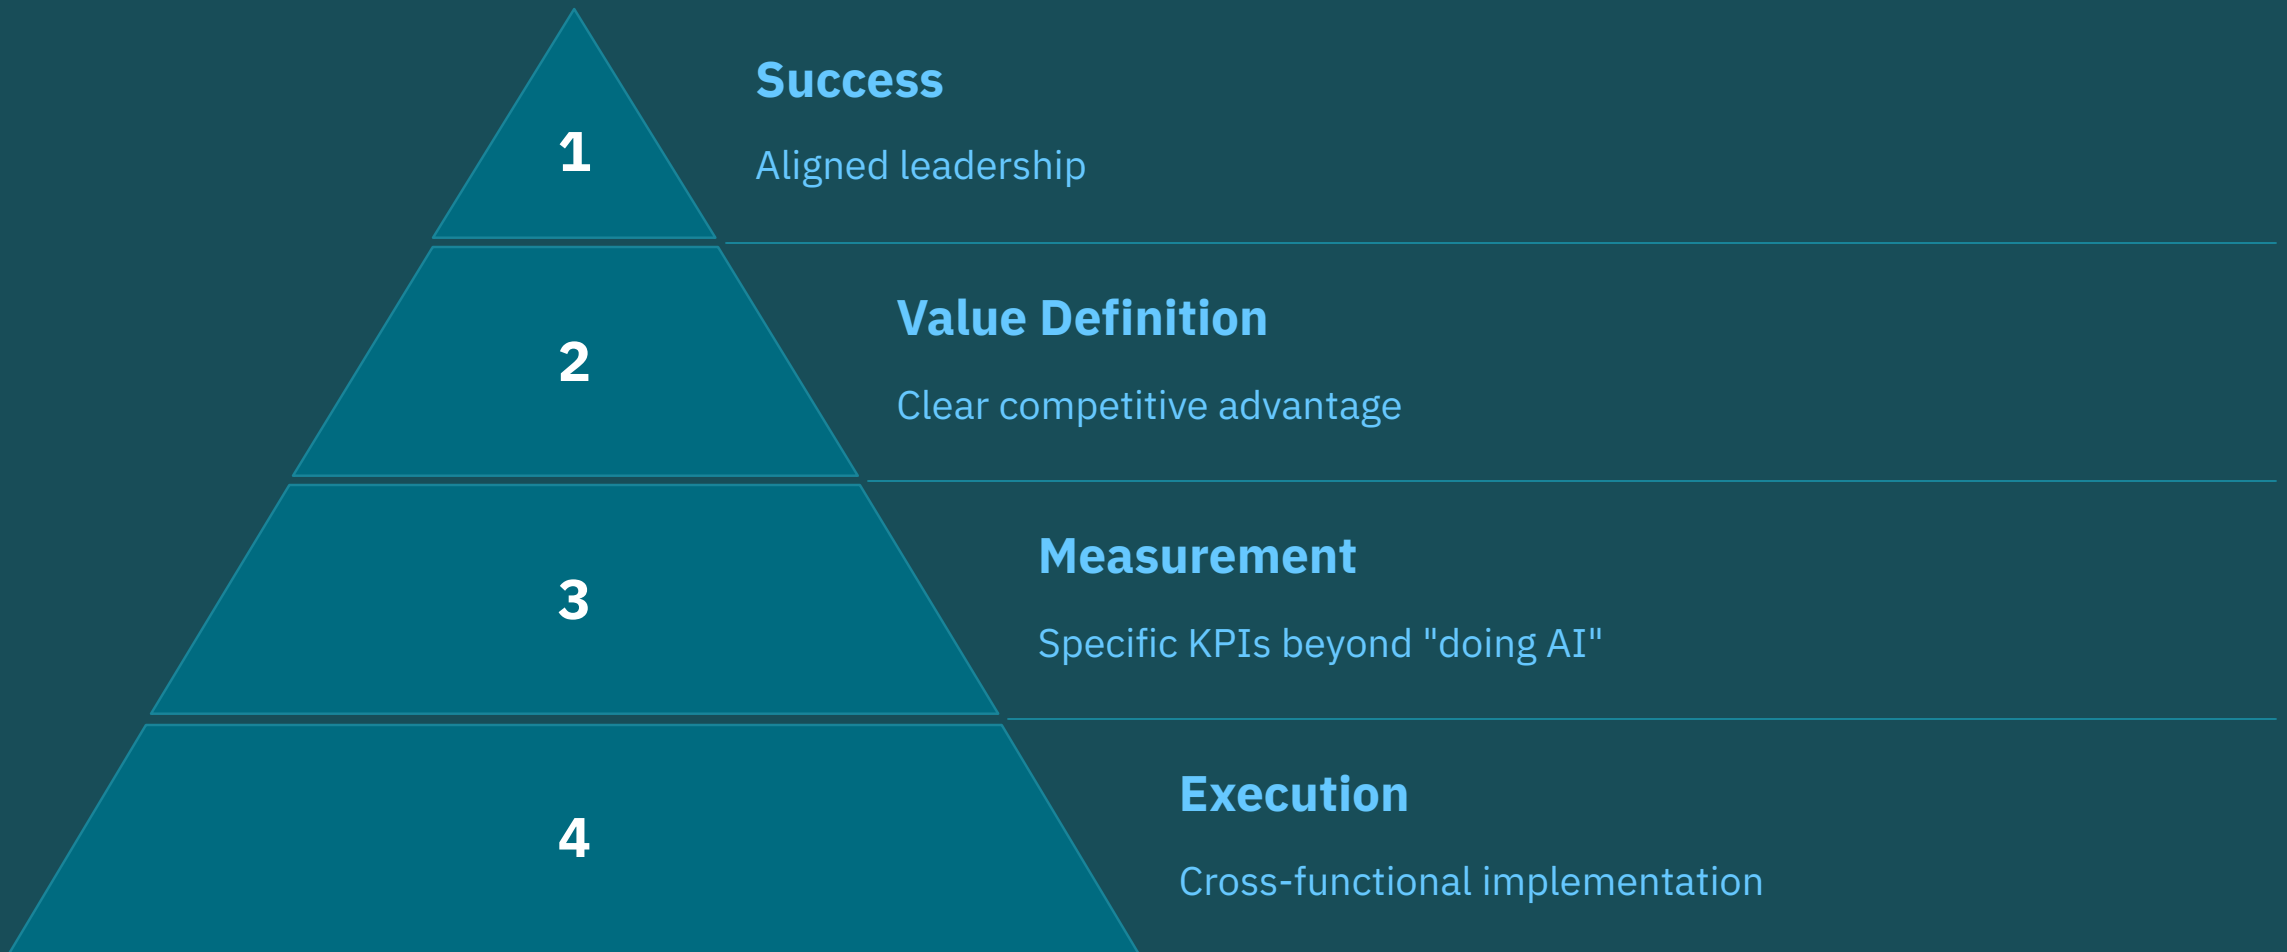

Companies increasing AI investment

1%

Maturity Level

Companies at AI maturity

Leadership Challenge, Not Tech Problem

Moving Forward: Imperfect Action

1

Accept Messiness

Not an excuse for inaction

2

Start Today

Imperfect progress beats perfect planning

3

Customize Approach

No one-size-fits-all strategy